Majority of the Committee Favor the Income Tax.

TEN CENTS MORE ON WHISKY

The Tax on Cigarettes Raised $1 Per 1000, but Cigars Remain Unchanged.

WASHINGTON, January 2.—The advocates of the individual income tax proposition were triumphant at the meeting of the Democratic members of the ways and means committee this afternoon. Eleven members were present when the final meeting was held at the treasury department at 4 o'clock. The issue was joined on two propositions, one to levy a tax of 2 per cent against individual incomes of over $4000 and against net incomes from corporations; and, second, a proposition offered as a substitute by Cochran of New York to tax the incomes from corporations 1 per cent and inheritances 5 per cent; to place a tax of 10 cents on whisky and restore sugar to the dutiable list at half a cent a pound. The vote on Cochran's substitute proposition resulted in defeat by 7 to 4, as follows: Ayes, Winsom, Cochran, Stevens, Montgomery; nays, McMillin, Turner, Whiting, Bryan, Bynum, Tarsney, Breckinridge. The original proposition was then carried by a vote of 6 to 5, as follows: Ayes, McMillin, Turner, Whiting, Bryan, Bynum, Tarsney; nays, Winsom, Cochran, Stevens, Montgomery, Breckenridge.

It was also decided to increase the whisky tax 10 cents per gallon, from 90 cents to $1, to be levied against whisky, in as well as out of bond. Upon representation that this increase would work an undue hardship to owners of whisky in bond, it was decided to extend the bonded period from three to eight years. The tax on playing cards, at one time fixed at 6 cents per pack, was reduced 2 cents. No increase was made in the tax on cigars, but the increase on cigarettes of $1 per 1000 was allowed to stand.

AN IMPORTANT SILVER BILL.

Providing for the Coinage of Silver Bullion.

WASHINGTON, January 2.—Representative Oates of Alabama will tomorrow introduce the following important bill to provide for the coinage of the silver bullion now opened by the United States:

"Section 1. All silver bullion now owned by the United States shall be coined as speedily as practicable into standard silver dollars of the weight and fineness as now prescribed by law, which shall be legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private; provided, one-seventieth part of said bullion may be coined into half-dollars, quarter-dollars and dimes in a proportion directed by the secretary of the treasury, and to contain the amounts of pure silver and alloy as now prescribed by law for such coinage.

"Section 2. The secretary of the treasury shall set apart $40,000,000 coined as aforesaid for the redemption of notes issued by the treasury and paid out for the purchase of silver bullion in the manner provided in the act of July 14, 1890, and whenever said sum is reduced below $40,000,000 by the redemption of said notes the secretary shall from any other silver dollars in the treasury not otherwise appropriated add to said sum so as to keep it up to $40,000,000 until the aggregate amount of said notes outstanding is reduced below that sum, and then the secretary shall keep in the treasury for redemption an amount of silver dollars equal to the amount of notes outstanding until all are redeemed; provided, the secretary may reissue any of said notes when redeemed as provided in the act of July 14, 1890.

"Section 3. Any contract hereafter made by the government of the United States or between corporations or between a corporation and person or persons or between private persons which is by its terms or by law payable in dollars or dollars and cents may be paid at its maturity or thereafter in any lawful coin of the United States."

Trouble Among Stockmen.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., January 2.—Sheepmen of West Texas are badly discouraged. A dispatch from Fort Stockton says conservative men estimate 50 per cent of the sheep of that section will die the present winter. There is nothing for them to eat except dead grass. There is some water, but the cow men are fencing and guarding it. The grass has been killed by frost. The sheep are moving in herds toward Mexico, and the cow men swear they will die before the sheep will go over their ranges. Both sides are armed and ready to shoot.

Very Few Chinese Registering.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 2.—A bureau for the registration of Chinese laborers, in conformity with the McCreary law, opened for business here this morning. Large rooms have been secured convenient to the Chinese quarters. Eight clerks, who were in readiness to issue certificates, had almost nothing to do up to noon. Only two applications for certificates of residence had been made. Collector Welborn has had circulars in Chinese freely distributed among the Chinese, urging them to come forward promptly.

Cleveland's Unemployed.

CLEVELAND, January 2.—A large crowd of unemployed men, accompanied by women, many carrying children in their arms, marched to the city hall this morning and demanded work from the city. When informed there was no work they made many threats. One leader said: "We will have work or tear down the city hall. Our families are suffering, and we must have employment or bread." The police dispersed them.

Daniels Has Skipped.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 2.—The newspapers here recently announced the mysterious disappearance of J. B. Daniels, a young real estate man, who left his home in Oakland about a week ago. The Examiner tomorrow will state that Daniels left to avoid arrest for forgery and embezzlement, resulting from a business difficulty in which the young man became involved while in Fresno.

The Olympia's Speed.

VALLEJO, January 2.—The naval officers who conducted the recent trial trip of the cruiser Olympia will forward a report to the secretary of the navy in a few days. It is said the official figures of the board will be a fraction over 21 knots for minimum speed and 25 for maximum.

CORBETT-MITCHELL FIGHT.

Governor Mitchell Will Not Allow It to Take Place.

CINCINNATI, January 2.—Governor Mitchell telegraphed an evening paper his purpose regarding the Corbett-Mitchell fight thus:

"Tallahasse, Fla., January 2.—The Corbett and Mitchell prize fight will not take place in Florida unless the supreme court of this state decides there is no law prohibiting such fight. It will not be necessary to proclaim martial law to prevent such fight, but were it necessary I should not hesitate to proclaim it, as I am determined to prevent this fight by any and all means within my reach. There can be no doubt as to my position, and people who come here with the expectation of seeing the laws of the state violated by two thugs and their aiders and abettors will be disappointed.

"H. L. MITCHELL, Governor."

Mrs. Lease and the Governor.

TOPEKA, January 2.—It is current gossip that Governor Llewelling will reinstate Mrs. Lease, as it has been found as Mrs. Lease claims, the governor has no legal right to remove her.

LEAVENWORTH, January 2.—Governor Lewelling denied having decided to reinstate Mrs. Lease. The statement is absolutely without foundation. He said today: "Mrs. Lease is out to stay."

OLATHE, January 2.—Mrs. Lease presided at the meeting of the board of charities today. Freeman, whom the governor appointed in her place, did not show up.

A Tragedy.

CASCADE LOCKS, Or., January 2.—Ben Cummings and Jack Hall, woodchoppers, got into an altercation yesterday over tools, when Hull fatally shot Cummings with a revolver. He then carried the dying man into a cabin, dressed his wound and delivered himself up to the sheriff.

Ontario Fruit Shipments.

ONTARIO, January 2.—Three hundred and fifteen carloads of fruit were shipped from Ontario last year, divided as follows: Oranges, 190; lemons, 18; dried fruit, 45; green fruit, 38; canned fruit, 12; raisins, 12.

The Markets.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 2.—Wheat—Quiet; May, $1.17½.
Barley—Inactive; May, 83c.
Corn—92½c.

MAP DRAWING

IS WRONGLY TAUGHT IN THE FRESNO SCHOOLS.

So Says a Correspondent—The Use of Construction Lines Condemned.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN: — Good public schools are an inducement to intelligent people, who have children, to locate where such schools exist. In these days of progress and advancement in pedagogical ideas, when almost every town of any size has its schools conducted under a system based on a knowledge of the laws which underlie the mental development of the child, there is no excuse to have any other than good schools.

In a system of school training, knowledge is not so much the object as the development of the power to gain knowledge. The universal law of development is exercise. The perceptive powers grow by perceiving, the memory by remembering, etc. A child looks at a map and then draws it from the impression received. Perception, memory, imagination and judgment have been called into natural activity. No matter how incorrect the map drawn by the child may be, the child has exercised and strengthened a number of mental faculties. The muscles of the body grow and are strengthened by judicious exercise. The powers of the mind are strengthened in the same way. Any method or device that interferes with or hinders the free exercise of the mental powers, is detrimental to their growth.

In the Fresno City schools much time is spent in drilling pupils to draw maps by means of "construction lines." By this method the pupils neither draw accurate maps nor develop much power. So-called maps, drawn with little regard to scientific accuracy, are tacked on the walls and kept before the eyes of the pupils during the whole year—a most pernicious method. If the object is mental development, these "construction lines" are a hindrance to such development. If the object is accuracy in map drawing, we ought to proceed upon scientific principles. In order that I may not be considered a fault finder, I shall quote what the best authorities on this subject say:

"Map drawing by the eye alone must be the rule. Even a simple system of diagrams is highly objectionable."—School Education.

"Have frequent map drawing from memory, using no construction lines."—School Devices, by Shaw and Donnell.

"The first lessons should be entirely by imitation. No method of triangulation or the use of construction lines should be used. The pupil will look at the map and then try to draw the map from memory."—Methods of Teaching, by Edward Brooks.

During our last county institute Professor Barnes of Stanford University said that he considered the books written by Alex E. Frye and by J. W. Redway as the best books for teachers on the subject of teaching geography. I shall quote from these books.

Alex E. Frye speaks of the use of construction lines in map drawing as "hindrances to mental growth," "a device for preventing the exercise of the mental faculties in acquiring distinct ideas of continental outlines and proportions," "an excellent 'bridge' over mental activity," etc.

J. W. Redway, in speaking of the use of construction lines in map drawing, says, "For a map of a township, or even a county, such an outline might be useful; but for a large area it is unscientific, incomplete and erroneous."

I do not think that this is, by any means, the worst method employed in our schools, but it serves as an illustration to show how much some people know of the laws that govern the growth of the child's mind. We would hardly loan a wheelbarrow to a man who did not know how to work with it, but many people are willing to have their children trained under a system that employs devices that are considered "hindrances to mental growth."

I have studiously refrained from fixing the blame upon anyone, so that this article may do the good for which it is written. OBSERVER.

CITY OFFICERS REPORT

The Ordinance on Fire Limits Amended.

A SALARY CLAIM DISALLOWED

City Attorney Risley Reports Sewer Election Ordinances, Which the Board Files.

At the meeting of the Board of City Trustees last night a large amount of business was transacted in a very businesslike manner.

The unusual brevity of remarks and their very pertinent character and the anxious way in which the chairman watched the clock was notably at variance with methods of the board on nights when a theater company is in town which the reporters wish to take in.

The city attorney reported a set of seven or eight ordinances with regard to the proposed sewer bond election, which were received and placed on file. The first of these contemplated economy, in that it proposed to reduce the number of election districts from 10 to 3.

The ordinance proposed to place the First and Third wards in the first precinct, the Second and Fourth in the second precinct, and the Fifth ward in the third precinct. As it takes eight persons to form an election board and the per diem is $5, this would effect a saving of $260 on an election.

THE PROCEEDINGS.

The Board of City Trustees met at 7 o'clock last night, a full board being present.

The petition of Donahoo, Emmons & Co. by Charles Inns, requesting permission to store powder and explosives in the 12x12 brick building on the Spinney brick yard was read.

Trustee Spinney said he objected to the petition being granted on the ground that it was objected to by citizens of the vicinity as dangerous, and besides it was on lands belonging to Trustee Spinney.

The matter, after some discussion, was put to a vote and it was voted to reject the petition.

The petition of Bates & Boyacken by Charles Boyacken for permission to store coal oil and gasoline in a corrugated iron building 14x20, on K street, between Amador street and Nelson avenue, was read and on motion granted.

The petition of J. W. Shanklin to have city ordinance No. 280 so amended as to exclude from the city limits fractions of lots 14, 15 and 16 in block 85, was read and on motion laid on the table.

The petition of Charles Mayer for retail liquor license came up for second reading, and on motion the bond was approved and the license granted.

The city attorney made his monthly report, with regard to certain overcharges made by City Engineer Etter. He finds part of overcharge belongs to property owners and not to city. As to the other overcharge, he states that the engineer's bondsmen are liable only for faithful performance of duty, and that the amount could not be collected of him personally.

He also stated that the recent action of the board with regard to excluding lands of Thomas E. Hughes from fire limits was irregular, and suggested a method of remedying the difficulty.

With regard to the proposed sewer extension, he suggested a method of lessening the expense by reducing the number of election precincts from ten to three, thereby saving the pay of fifty-six election officers. The report was received and placed on file.

The poundmaster reported the number of animals taken up, and the disposition made of them, showing cash receipts for the city, $4.25. Report received and filed.

The city recorder reported that he had imposed fines in the sum of $10, of which $5 had been collected. Report received and filed.

The city treasurer made an itemized report of the amount of money in all the several funds to which the city revenue is apportioned, which was received and placed on file. This report will be published hereafter.

The city clerk reported the financial condition of the treasury, the expenditures, receipts, etc., which was received and placed on file.

Street Superintendent Bilby reported for the month, which report was received and placed on file.

The sewer committee reported having examined the canal on the north of the Barton estate and found the banks a foot higher than last year, and the canal cleaned out, and in all respects in good order with the exception of a few places that might be strengthened.

The street superintendent reported the action taken with regard to the proposed culvert under the railroad, and the sewer committee should be empowered to secure the necessary lumber for the purpose.

Mr. Foin appeared with a complaint of sewer vent, between L and M streets, near Tuolumne street. The street superintendent was directed to put it in repair.

A resolution was presented as follows: "Good cause appearing therefor, it is hereby ordered that hereafter and until further notice, no person shall be employed by the city of Fresno, in or about any city work, who is not on the great register of the county and an elector within and for said city." On motion the consideration of the resolution was continued for two weeks.

The new ordinance amending the ordinance fixing the fire limits came up. Mr. Spinney moved to strike out that portion of the proposed ordinance excluding lots No. 17, 18 and 19 and rear 40 feet of lots No. 29, 30, 31 and 32 in block 73. This motion prevailed and the ordinance was passed as amended.

The fire and water committee reported plans and specifications for hose wagon No. 1, which were read and accepted, and the clerk was directed to advertise three days for bids, to be opened at the next meeting.

J. G. Rhodes then appeared before the board in behalf of Charles Mayer, who succeeded to the assets of Fritz Luckeman's saloon, and Mr. Rhodes desired to impress the opinion that Mayer also fell heir to Luckeman's licenses.

The board gave Mr. Rhodes five minutes to elaborate his views on the line of descent in saloon licenses and he accordingly argued with one eye fixed on the main chance and the other on the town clock. The board decided that Mr. Mayer was not within the lines of inheritance and his proposition was rejected.

The board then took up the consideration of bills and accounts, and a number of accounts were audited and allowed.

The bill of Donahoo, Emmons & Co. was continued until next meeting. This matter arose out of the setting of hydrants, and a technical question arose as to the powers of the board to contract for and pay for such work without having it advertised. The bill was referred to the city attorney.

The bill of Jeff G. Jones of $7 for sliding pole furnished to the chemical engine over two years ago was found irregular form and ancient to a degree, and was rejected.

The bill of W. M. Cardwell for $75 claimed for salary as policeman for the month of December was rejected. The board discontinued police headquarters, of which Mr. Cardwell had the day detail, and thereby dispensed with his services as a member of the police force. He claimed that he was entitled to a full month's salary.

The matter of gas and electric lights came up on complaint of a number of lights not burning during the month, and the board decided to deduct $100 from the bill presented, subject to an adjustment to be hereafter made, and Trustee Spinney was appointed to confer with the officers of the Gas and Electric Light company.

The bill of A. Bawn not being in due form went over.

Mr. Spinney called attention to the fact that the city library is only open for three hours on Sunday, and he insisted that by all means the library should be kept open on Sunday of all days of the week. This would tend to keep people off the streets and out of saloons.

Chairman Church stated that the matter was entirely within the province of the library trustees, who should be consulted with regard to it.

The board then adjourned.

THE SUNDAY LAW.

A Home Seeker Speaks Favorably of It.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—I see some discussion of the proposed Sunday law now before the city trustees, and wish to say a few words on that subject, but do not wish it understood that I am attempting to answer "Justice," nor to engage in a further discussion after what I may have to say in this article.

I am just from Texas, where I settled thirty-six years ago. I have seen the evil effects of no Sunday law, and then I have seen and lived in communities where the Sunday law was strictly observed. Those towns where there is no Sunday law are continually in trouble from the lawless class that seek such places of abode; and where the law is faithfully executed I have seen towns grow and flourish, schools built up, educational interests take a higher standard, young men and girls and laborers of all classes joyous in anticipation of the day of rest, and the barbers especially delighted that they lived under such a high born privilege.

Who is to be benefited? is asked. What sort of population do you wish to bring to your city and make homes among you? Do you want the cultivated God fearing citizens, who will help to make your city and valley blossom as a rose? Then pass your Sunday law, and when passed honor it, and soon you will see many of the best citizens who are now hunting homes in California, seeking your real estate agents and investing in your city and county property.

I am here looking for a home. I have heard it said at other places that Fresno was a hard place. When the constitution of American freedom was adopted we recognized the day of rest. I honor all sects that are truly serving God, nor would I throw one stone in their way. I have never heard of any conflict with the Seventh Day Adventists, nor any other religious denominations. The Jews I have lived among and associated with for thirty-five years; they have never made any kick against the Sunday law, but cheerfully keep our Sabbath. So let us keep our birthright of the Sabbath as a sacred trust.

A BARBAROUS CUSTOM.

Indian Doctors Failing to Cure Must Return the Fee.

From the Sanger Herald.

On Wednesday the Mill Creek Indians were out in force on the streets of Sanger, the occasion being the preliminary examination of one of their tribe called Pete, in Justice Cummings' court. Pete is accused of murdering Old Tom, the medicine man of his tribe by waylaying him on a lonely trail in the mountains and sending several rifle balls into his body. Mrs. W. A. Akers, who speaks the Indian language as fluently as the Indians themselves, officiated as interpreter.

One Indian witness, after being closely questioned by District Attorney Church, finally admitted that Pete told him he was going to kill Old Tom, who owed him money. Mr. Finley explained that it was the custom among Indians to pay the medicine man in advance when his services were required to administer to the sick, and if the patient died the fee had to be returned. Old Tom failed to cure Pete's daughter, who died of consumption, and it is supposed that he neglected to return the fee, which would seem to establish a possible motive for the crime. Pete was held to answer to the charge of murder in the superior court.

Boss McKane Re-elected.

NEW YORK, January 2.—With eleven indictments hanging over him, a sentence of thirty days in jail and a fine of $250, Boss McKane was today re-elected president of the King county board of supervisors by a vote of 18 to 14. The Republicans had come prepared to keep McKane out by contesting the seats of three members, but were outvoted.

EMPLOYMENT even at low wages is preferable to charity.

STANISLAUS county has failed to raise sufficient funds to make an exhibit at the Midwinter Fair. Samples of the nose crop should be put on exhibition at any rate.

A SONOMA farmer will exhibit a dozen potatoes at the Midwinter Fair which which weigh thirty-three pounds. The spud centers will have to rise up en masse and join forces to beat that.

FRESNO weathered the financial storm of 1893 in good shape. There were no bank failures, and consequently no weeping depositors. That times will materially improve during the present year is at least probable.

GOOD irrigated lands in Fresno county are now on the market at prices within the reach of home-seekers of moderate means. They are good investments at the present low prices, either for cultivation or speculation.

A LOS ANGELES contemporary says that the completion of an outfall sewer for that city will give a great impetus to the influx of home-seekers. It is indeed a great scheme. A tourist influx, a sewer outfall, and Los Angeles absorbs the profits.

THE San Jose Mercury remarks that this is the year of California's opportunity. It is also the year of opportunity for the thousands who are coming here. The chances for getting good land at low prices will in all probability not occur again during the present generation, if it ever does.

THE sentiment of the country is strongly against the continued issuance of government bonds to meet treasury deficits, and that sentiment is evidently reflected in congress. The administration proposes, however, to continue that system, and there are good reasons for believing that Grover is a bigger man than old Congress.

THE Midwinter Fair is not yet ready for visitors, and will not be for at least a month. The managers have shown wisdom by deferring the formal opening until the various buildings and exhibits are put in shape. Incalculable damage was done the World's Fair by having the opening before order had been brought out of chaos, and the Midwinter managers have evidently profited by the experience of the parent show.

NEWSPAPERS which persist in referring to the people of this county as being in sympathy with Chris Evans are grossly ignorant of the facts. There is no sympathy for Chris Evans or his kind in this county, outside the criminal class, which exists in every community, and a very few of the bandit's old friends in the locality in which he lived as an apparently honest miner for a good many years. Even in that locality fear of the desperado's vengeance has far more to do with the assistance he has received than has sympathy or friendship. Sympathy for Evans, excepting that of well-known criminals, has nothing to do with his escape, and very little, if anything, with the assistance which enables him to elude his pursuers. Threats and intimidation are the means by which Evans has secured arms and food, and are the only means by which he can secure anything from nine-tenths of the people of Fresno county.

THE Democratic party of California is united in sustaining the President's policy.—Woodland Democrat.

To the above statement the Stockton Mail, as a representative Democratic journal, is entitled to right of way in making reply. The Mail says: "The only way of estimating the sentiment of a political party in time of peace (i. e., when there is no election on hand) is by noting the expressions of the press of that persuasion. Now it happens that the Democratic newspapers of California do not sustain the President's policy. There is not a Democratic paper of any influence in the state, save the one from which we quote and the Fresno Expositor, that has supported the President in his anti-silver policy, and his disregard of his sworn duty to enforce the law under the Geary and Sherman acts. No doubt when the time for holding the next state convention arrives the bread-and-butter brigade will be astir in force to secure the passage of the customary complimentary resolutions, but whether they succeed or not will be neither here nor there. That is what the bread-and-butter brigade is for. No matter what kind of resolutions may be put through under pressure of the eminent politicians who have been installed in office under the President they will not change the minds of the people, and in the final act it is the people who must put the stamp of approval or otherwise upon the record of the administration. The Democracy of California does not believe in an American money system shaped after the manner recommended by the money interests of Europe. It does not believe in making fish of one class and flesh of another in executing the laws of congress, as was done in the purchase of silver bullion and the deportation of the Chinese. The state convention may undertake to ram approval of these acts of Presidential misfeasance down the throat of the party, but the voters will have the last say in November. The wisest course to pursue would be to pass the question entirely, but by so doing the federal brigade might appear to be unmindful of the interests of their chief. So the resolutions may be expected to be put through, to be repudiated later on by the men whose function in the party is to do the voting. In our opinion, if the California Democracy formally commits itself to the policy of the President it is done up."

I recognized in it at once an herb that the Mexicans used to give us in the early 50's for bowel troubles. (I came to California in 1850.) and I knew it would help me and it has. For the first time in years I can sleep well and my system is regular and in splendid condition. The old Mexican herbs in this remedy are a certain cure in constipation and bowel troubles." Ask or

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION

Of Having Murdered Ah Wing—Other Highbinders Arrive.

Deputy Constable Angel arrived last evening from Merced, having in custody Sing Song and a Chinese woman. Sing Song is believed to be the highbinder who killed Ah Wing last Saturday evening.

It is stated that Quan Tim, perhaps the most notorious highbinder on the coast, has arrived in Chinatown. Four others are also said to have come here within the past few days. They are Lum Lum, Song, Wing and Charley Yuk. They are all in hiding and have so far eluded the vigilance of the officers.

Charley Yuk was here a few years ago and caused considerable trouble in Chinatown. He was sent up once from Bakersfield. The Chinatown officers are determined to drive the gang out of town.

A Denial.

Several of the Chinese witnesses at the inquest on the murdered Ah Wing stated that Special Officer Ragsdale was near the scene of the tragedy and could have caught the murderer, who, they alleged, ran past him. Ragsdale says this is incorrect. He was in a store about 200 feet from where the shooting occurred. He heard the shot and the sound of some one running and ran out to the sidewalk and down the street, but saw no one but the murdered Chinaman. He asked the Chinese gathered there who had fired the shot, but none of them would give any information.

SEEN IN KERN COUNTY

A Probable Story From Bakersfield.

The Bandits Intimidate the People in the Mountains—Marsh Demasters' Rifle Taken Away by Evans. Deputy Sheriff White Brings the Latest News From Pine Flat.

Important information was received over the wires last night from Bakersfield in regard to the whereabouts of Evans and Morrell. If the information is to be credited—and there are many circumstances to support it—they are making their way southward with the probable intention of leaving the state and, perhaps, of going to Mexico. The telegram is as follows:

CHRIS GOING SOUTH.

Bakersfield, January 2.—Last evening as Judge Mahon, a justice of the peace, and C. E. Lechner were returning from the Weed Patch country, they met two men with a buckboard. One was a large man with a full dark beard and the other a young man, whom they believed to be Morrell, who was here some time ago with the merry-go-round, and whom Mahon and Lechner knew.

"They inquired for the road leading to the Tehachapi mountains, and were directed on the White Wolf Spring road. The large man with a full beard wore dark eyeglasses. The Judge and Mr. Lechner are positive that they were Evans and Morrell. A flask of whisky was offered them, of which Morrell drank, but Evans refused."

It has been ascertained from persons in this city acquainted with Lechner and Mahon, that they are entirely trustworthy, and that any statement of theirs made in earnest might be depended upon.

There is a good deal to support the supposition that Evans and his companion are making their way to Mexico. Evans realizes that if he remains in this county, or even in California, his race will be soon run; while if he leaves the country altogether, going to Lower California or Mexico, he might be able to escape altogether.

The officers lost all trace of the fugitives last Friday evening, and, supposing Evans and Morrell struck southward, they could easily have reached the point where they were seen by Lechner and Mahon at the time of the reported meeting.

The description given by the Bakersfield men of Evans tallies very closely with his appearance. As for Morrell, he is well known in the Kern capital, and it is not likely Lechner and Mahon would mistake some one else for him. Considering all these things, it is reasonable to believe that the desperadoes are trying to leave the country.

FROM PINE FLAT.

But little definite news concerning Evans and Morrell was received at first hand yesterday until the arrival of Deputy Sheriff John White yesterday afternoon, and what information he brought is disappointing, as it shows that the desperadoes have, for the present at least, put their pursuers off of their track.

Mr. White left Pine Flat yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, having been out after Evans and Morrell since their escape last Thursday. To a Republican reporter last evening White said:

"There is really very little to tell. We found out that Evans and Morrell had breakfast Friday morning at the house of Harvey Akers, about five miles this side of Pine Flat. They had dinner at Newt Demasters' place at noon, and the same evening got a lunch at Demasters' and left.

"They were seen a little later by a boy of Archer's, who lives about a mile from Demasters' on Kings river, going toward the river. We found the tracks of their horses where they went across and returned. This was Friday evening, and we have found nothing since then.

THEY STOLE A RIFLE.

"I have heard that Evans and Morrell met young Marshall Demasters and took his rifle from him. It was a Winchester. No, there's no doubt that they went up along the flume after leaving their conveyance. I don't believe, however, that they went by the plank walk; they probably took the road, for when they got to Jarrett's place about a mile this side of Akers' their shoes were very muddy. Of course some of the officers must have passed them on the road, but it was so foggy that their presence could not be discovered.

"It is not likely that Evans has gone into Sampson's Flat; it is too cold there and the snow is deep. They are somewhere around Pine Flat. It is almost impossible for us to get any information concerning his and Morrell's movements, as the people up there are afraid of them.

"Evans has seen most of them and warned them not to give any information if they valued their lives, and they are heeding the warning. The man stationed at station No. 8 of the flume—Bennett is his name—also received warning not to send anything over the telephone, threatening to kill him if he did.

THE ROUTE THEY TOOK.

The outlaws have told their story to several parties on Pine Flat, which corroborates that of Ben Scott and Rob Vinn, the cook, who witnessed the first break.

After Evans shot City Marshal Morgan, near the Adventist church, thereby causing him to let go of Morrell, the latter ran to the horses to unhitch them and escape.

The shooting had frightened the horses and they were plunging on the hitching strap, and as soon as he untied them they ran over Morrell, knocking him down and running the wagon over him, bruising him badly and cutting a chunk out of his chin and splitting his forehead open.

They then took Cochran's cart and ran the horse until it gave out just north of Sanger, when they took to the road and across lots.

WHERE THEY WERE SEEN.

The first place they were heard of was at Camp 9 on the flume opposite the mouth of Mill creek, where they knocked for admission about 2 a.m. Friday morning and Chris announced who he was, but the flume man would not open the house.

He next called at Jarrett's at 4 a.m., and there being a sick lady there, he excused himself for the disturbance, and remained about half an hour.

They then went a mile farther to Harvey Akers' and had breakfast, remaining there from 6 to 8 o'clock. They then went to Carter's and talked with him fifteen or twenty minutes.

From Carter's they went to Newt. Demasters' in Pine Flat, arriving there between 9 and 10 a.m. Friday, and stayed till dinner.

After dinner they went down to Bennett's place, station 8 on the flume, and told him that he did not want that telephone used about him in any manner; that it was used too much last year; that his difference was with the Southern Pacific company and Wells-Fargo's people, and Bennett was warned not to inform the officers of his movements; if he did they would make it a point to settle with him.

They searched Bennett's place for arms, but found none. John J. White says that they have in like manner terrorized everybody up there by their bloodthirsty threats. Therefore some of the people up there are not to be blamed for being reticent.

After visiting Bennett they returned to Newt Demasters and stayed there until evening, when they took a lunch with him and went towards the river. They were seen going through Archer's field, and the tracks show they crossed the river Friday night.

Saturday forenoon they met Marshall Demasters in Pine Flat and took his Winchester rifle from him, since which time no trace has been found. The country is heavily timbered and full of rocks and hiding places.

EVANS DESPERATE.

Chris told Newt Demasters to notify Scott or any of his deputies that came that way not to follow him; he had lost an eye, an arm and had a sentence for life in front of him and that death was sweeter than life.

MRS. EVANS RELEASED.

Mrs. Evans appeared before Justice Austin yesterday afternoon for her preliminary examination on the charge of assisting a prisoner, her husband, to escape. She was represented by Attorney Sam Hinds.

Assistant District Attorney Alva E. Snow appeared for the people, and stated that there was not evidence sufficient to warrant the defendant to be held over, upon which the court ordered that the charge be dismissed and the defendant discharged.

Mrs. Evans left for her home in Visalia last evening, accompanied by Mrs. Byrd, her mother, who had arrived on the noon train.

Jim Hutchinson, who is in custody for the same offense that was alleged against Mrs. Evans, was brought before Justice Crichton yesterday and put under $1500 bonds. His examination was set for next Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The remainder of the Hutchinsons, who are also supposed to have been parties to the plot for Evans' escape, will be brought before Justice Austin today.

A HIGHWAY ROBBERY

MRS. KOBLITZ HELD UP NEAR FOWLER.

Robbed of Her Money By Three Men—They Threatened Her Life.

Shortly before 11 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Clara Koblitz was robbed on the road between Selma and Fowler, while on her way to this city, by three men.

The men were going toward Selma and as soon as they came near her one of them jumped forward and held the horse she was driving. The other two went back to the cart and demanded that she deliver to them what valuables she had about her.

Mrs. Koblitz only had $5 in her purse and this she handed to them. The fellows were not very well satisfied with this small haul and swore roundly. They then possessed themselves of the buggy robes, but were induced by Mrs. Koblitz, after much pleading on her part, to return them.

One of the men then ordered her to drive away as quick as she could, threatening to take her into the field and cut her throat if she did not. The man who was at the horse's head seemed to be a rather bloodthirsty fellow and suggested that they cut her throat anyway, as dead people tell no tales.

They did not follow his advice, however, and Mrs. Koblitz disposed with a second invitation to be off and drove rapidly away. Mrs. Koblitz was on her way to visit her husband, Anton Koblitz, who works in this city. She is employed in Selma.

The authorities were notified upon Mrs. Koblitz's arrival in Fresno and are on the lookout for the men. The one who held the horse is smaller than his companions. He wore ragged clothes and has a full face and beard. His age is about 30. The second man wore blue overalls and a gray coat and hat. He has a black mustache. The fellow displayed a knife while holding up Mrs. Koblitz. The third worn black clothes and was of a sandy complexion. The two are about 28 years of age.

It is stated that one of these men answers to the description of a man who attempted to rape a girl of 11 in this city yesterday morning about 7 o'clock.

The girl was on the way from her home near Mard Fresno streets to the butcher shop back of the Buckeye grocery store, which is on the corner of N and Fresno streets. A short distance from the butcher's the fellow came up to her, grabbed her by the arm and dragged her to a barn back of the grocery store. Before he could accomplish his purpose, however, assistance arrived, the girl crying out loudly. The fellow managed to escape.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY

Given Last Evening to Miss Dollie Meade.

The residence of Mrs. L. E. Mead was made merry by the presence of about a dozen young people last evening, the occasion being a surprise to her daughter Dollie in celebration of her 15th birthday. The evening was spent in music and games such as generally interest young people of their age. Choice refreshments were served. Those present were Misses Maud Mills, Ida Faber, Jennie Plann, Edith Deming, Laura Sohn, Ivey Mead; Messrs Frank Enstabrook, Guy Burns, Bert Johnston, Arthur Nelson, Elson Harding, Walter Burns, Willie Mead.

Congregational Church.

The revival meetings now being held in the above named church are marked with considerable interest. Rev. Mr. Collins spoke last evening from the text "We Let Her Drive." Misses Belle and Jennie Ritchie sang a duet, "Drifting Down Life's Current," which was very effective. In a trembling voice one young man said, "From this day I mean to live a Christian life and I want the prayers of all Christian people." Mr. Collins will speak tonight on "Wrecked, but Rescued." Everybody invited.

Proceeds of the Concert.

It was stated in yesterday's Republican that the promenade concert given New Year's night for the benefit of this county's Midwinter Fair fund was a financial success, and the report of the ladies proves the correctness of the statement. The amount of cash taken in was $273.70; expenses, $46.55; profit, $227.15. A few tickets still to be heard from will bring this amount to $230.

SMILIE BROS.' CLAIM

Chairman Letcher and Smilie Become Personal.

A VERIFIED ACCOUNT FILED

A Warrant for $17,500 Ordered Drawn—Continued to This Morning.

The Board of Supervisors met in regular monthly session yesterday afternoon and the matter of the claim of Smilie Brothers was amongst the first business to come up.

The Board of Supervisors, on December 16th last, by a vote of 3 to 2, ordered a partial payment of $17,500 to be made to the contractors, who claimed a balance of $24,208. Messrs. Butler and Sayre voted against this, as they favored payment in full.

The board failed to order a warrant drawn, and the matter lay in abeyance until this meeting of the board. Some of the members were anxious to have the opinion of the district attorney on the status of the case, but it was not forthcoming.

After some discussion of the matter of whether a warrant should be drawn as a partial payment, it was put to a test and carried by a vote of 3 to 2. This time Messrs. Foster and Letcher voted in the negative.

This disposed of, Robert Smilie, who was present at the session and presented an itemized account containing a full statement of the original claim, together with the alterations made thereto and the amount of debit or credit involved in each, together with all the payments made thereon, which indicated that the county owes the contractors on the court house additions the sum of $24,208.62, including, of course, the $17,500 for for which the warrant had been ordered.

The object of this was to cover a technical legal point, so Mr. Smilie stated, and he desired the bill taken up in this form and accepted or rejected.

Mr. Foster desired to have the matter to go over until the district attorney could be seen and his opinion obtained, and moved that it be continued to this morning. Chairman Letcher called Mr. Wickersham to the chair and seconded the motion. There was some further discussion back and forth, and the matter was finally continued until 10 a.m. today.

It was evident that Smilie was deeply disgusted with what he termed the dopping methods of some members of the board, and the chairman was evidently out of humor and left the room at once after the board adjourned.

A quarter of an hour later Chairman Letcher and Mr. Smilie met on the landing of the court house steps and something was said about the matter in dispute and at once there was a pyrotechnic display of language.

In the course of their set-to Smilie asked Letcher why he did not take an honest, manly course in the matter and Letcher responded that he did not propose to let Smilie rob the county.

He claimed that some of the work was not up to contract; that he had samples of the bad concrete locked up in the county treasurer's vault, and did not propose to let the contractors defraud the county.

He applied some sharp words, characterizing Smilie as dishonest, to which Smilie responded that his hoary locks and great age were his defense in making such assertions, whereupon the the chairman announced his readiness to fill the contractor full of leaden souvenirs.

After a free and unimpassioned exchange of views touching the character and unworth each of the other, the tumult dwindled to a calm and the parties wandered away with feelings of suppressed rage.

WEST PARK ALLIANCE.

An Interesting Meeting Held Last Saturday.

Editor Republican:—As was expected, the business and jollification meeting of West Park Alliance last Saturday night, turned out a grand success. The state and county presidents and other Alliance dignitaries were present.

A large amount of business was transacted, and quite a number of candidates of both sexes initiated with impressive ceremonies.

From a large number of earnest, strong and stalwart Alliance men, and from the many matrons and young ladies of intelligence, vivacity and good looks present at the meeting, eight delegates and eight alternates were chosen to represent West Park at the County Alliance meeting next Saturday at Fowler.

As much business of vital interest and importance to the whole county, as well as to the Alliance people, is to be transacted at the Fowler meeting, it is about as certain as anything could be that there will be a large attendance, and that its proceedings will be as pleasant and in every respect as satisfactory as was the West Park meeting. The Fowler meeting is to be a business, a jollification and a basket lunch meeting, and everything is to be carried out in a cheerful spirit and up to the handle of practical work.

Says Henry Hudson, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., who certifies as follows:

"Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc., none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old

TREES MADE A FINE GROWTH ON ALKALI LAND AFTER USING GYPSUM

Visalia, November 21, 1893.—Coalinga Gypsum and Fertilizing Company—Gentlemen: In November, 1892, I bought four tons of your Gypsum and applied it to alkali land on my place near Visalia. I then planted pear trees on the land, and they have made an excellent growth. The Evansdale Fruit Company planted pear trees on the same kind of land just across the road from my place, and their trees did not make much of a growth. I cheerfully recommend your Gypsum to any one who contemplates planting trees in alkali land. Geo. A. Parker.

ENDORSED BY THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF TULARE COUNTY.

Visalia, November 7, 1893.—Coalinga Gypsum and Fertilizing Company—Gentlemen: I used your Gypsum on the court house yard here with excellent results as a fertilizer and renovator of alkali, greatly improving that which had already been set to grass and producing a fine growth on some alkali spots heretofore bare. B. J. Fleming, Janitor.

The members of the Board of Supervisors of Tulare county hereby certify that the above is true. T. E. Henderson,
Chairman of Board of Supervisors of Tulare County.

FROM A PROMINENT FRUIT GROWER OF KINGS COUNTY.

Hanford, November 28, 1893.—Coalinga Gypsum and Fertilizing Company—Gentlemen: In reply to your questions regarding the neutralizing qualities of your Gypsum sent to me, I can say that I have experimented with it on what is considered the very strongest kind of alkali land, and in fact lands that have not a particle of vegetation growing thereon. My process was to take a given quantity of the land and mix the Gypsum; sow my seeds, viz., alfalfa, wheat, corn, barley, peach and a few varieties of flower seed, and in all cases the seeds germinated well. On the other hand, the same soil, even mixed with different kinds of manure, would not. On the other hand, the same soil, even mixed with different kinds of manure, would not germinate seeds without Gypsum, consequently I have no hesitancy in recommending your Gypsum to the farmers and horticulturists of Kings, Tulare and other counties in the state. Jas. A. Hill.
Yours respectfully.

NOW IS THE TIME TO USE GYPSUM—BEFORE THE RAINS.

PROF. LEONARD.

His Visit to Fresno—A Modern Day Seer in the City.

Startling Tests of His Weird Faculties—Frank Proposition to the Public.

In rooms Nos. 55 and 56, Hughes hotel, is sojourning for a few days a gentleman whose presence would create not only a ripple of excitement in the city, but who would be honored with an ovation if the public were aware of whom they were entertaining. His scientific skill and the convincing evidences he can show of his ability to read the wanderings of the mind and to give in detail its secret rovings borders on the miraculous.

It is a common thing to see cards appearing in the daily papers calling attention to the "wonderful" secrets solved by spiritualists, trance mediums and self-styled fortune tellers, whose fakes are so tangible that it is natural the public should feel a tinge of disgust and lose faith in mankind generally. As a matter of course, when a genuine clairvoyant appears upon the scene he is usually classed with the frauds, and finds it a difficult task to prove his ability, integrity and honorable motives. Since the days of the Fox family in New York and the mysterious spiritualism emanating from their strange experiences, they have had a chain of votaries even until the present day, comprising all classes of pretenders, some among whom have succeeded in entertaining their auditors and in causing them to believe that the partition walls between the physical and spiritual worlds is a thin fabric easily penetrated.

Clairvoyance is not an acquired gift, but must be a scientific, innate faculty which is as a guiding star over the pathway of its possessor. When this occult faculty is enthroned in the brain, its force and influence is akin to the talent of the medium who readily sees the intricacies and solves the most difficult problems. To this perceptive class of scientific men belongs Professor J. G. Leonard, the seer, at the Hughes hotel. He comes indorsed by the highest authorities, and his proposition to the public is so fair and his claims to recognition are so clearly demonstrated that he at once convinces the life-long skeptic that he is entitled to the fullest confidence. His tests of clairvoyance and of solving the secrets that are hidden within the soul are so startling that his auditors stare in amazement and almost wonder if he be real flesh and blood. He does not assume the role of mind-reading, but moves on a high plane without being clothed in the raiment of mysticism, and performs every act in an open, well lighted room. He brushes aside contortions and unnatural attitudes, conducting himself at all times with the utmost civility and gentlemanly deportment, at once pleasing to his clients and patients. He appears in a business suit and avoids any effect common to the professional sorcerer, who essays to impress the public that he dwells in weird and ominous spheres.

On all matters pertaining to business, uncertainties, future prospects, coming dangers, love, marriage, sickness, speculations, names of enemies or friends, names of living and dead friends, hidden treasures, the location of mines, the diagnosing and accurate location of physical ailments, and in all the affairs of life throughout the category, Professor Leonard has proven himself a master of his science. He gives positive information without asking a question, and if the information is not entirely satisfactory to the applicant the professor will not accept a cent, believing that his profession should be held sacredly above the mere ambition of gain without regard to his clients' wishes. He has been in practice about fifteen years, in which time he has entertained the leading scientists of the world. The merchant, the lawyer, the doctor, the staid banker and the humble, poor woman can consult him in confidence upon important matters without quizzing or questioning, and will be repaid by the interesting tests alone, aside from obtaining the information they seek.

Professor Leonard has reduced sittings to the nominal sum of $2, and, as stated, if the information is not what the applicant desires, will decline to accept the money, a proposition so different from the usual plans of mediums and spiritualists that it is evidence of the professor's competency to prove his claims.

He requests that people should not wait until the last moment to see him, as he cannot possibly make appointments, but must extend the same courtesy to all. His room is on the parlor floor of the Hughes hotel, and any lady or gentleman need not feel the slightest hesitation in calling upon him. He is an approachable, courteous gentleman, and at once impresses callers with his frank and unassuming bearing.

Professor Leonard comes to the city for a brief stay, and he desires that his scientific sittings shall be the criterion by which the public shall render the verdict upon his masterly solving the riddles of life. He will positively not remain in Fresno after Saturday evening, January 6th.

THEY CAN'T BE BEAT

THE REPUBLICANS ARE AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

Defeat of the Athletic Baseball Nine.

A Hotly Contested Game.

As Old Sol hid his bright face behind the western hills Sunday afternoon The Republicans and Athletics were in the eighth inning of a hotly contested baseball game, and 500 people went wild with excitement. At the beginning of the ninth inning the score stood 9 to 8 in favor of The Republicans, when they found their batting eye and pounded out seven runs, leaving the score 16 to 8. The Athletics came up with blood in their eyes in their half of the ninth and succeeded getting Toomey to third, but he did not score, leaving the score as above.

In the first inning Machen came up for The Republicans and was retired on a fly to Porter. Chance was out at first. Donahoo hit a long fly to Reese, who muffed. Hayes hit another fly to Reese, who redeemed himself by making a one-hand catch. In the second half of the inning W. Monroe struck out, Toomey flew out to Gilbert and Reese struck out.

Second inning—Swartz struck out, Homan hit a long fly to Smutz, who failed to bag it; Gilbert was safe on a base hit; McDonald flew out to Jennings, and Monroe was retired at first. In the second half A. Duncan struck out, Porter was safe on a base hit, Smutz struck out, M. Duncan placed a two-bagger just over Swartz's head, scoring Porter; Jennings struck out.

Third inning—Machen fouled out to Toomey, Chance was thrown out at first, Donahoo struck out. Second half—Freman reached first on Machen's error, W. Monroe smashed a hot one to Hayes, Freman was out at second, Toomey was sent to first on balls, Monroe scored on a wild pitch, Toomey scored on Reese's sacrifice, A. Duncan struck out.

Fourth inning—Hayes struck out, Swartz flew out to Duncan, Homan reached second on a base hit and error by Smutz, stole third, scored on Gilbert's base hit, McDonald hit to W. Monroe, Gilbert was thrown out at second. Second half—Porter smashed out a sky-scraper, which was neatly taken in by Swartz, after a long run; Smutz was struck out, but reached first on Homan's error, stole second and scored on errors; M. Duncan struck out; Jennings struck out.

Fifth inning—Monroe was thrown out at first by Porter, Machen struck out, Chance was safe on a base hit, Donahoo smashed out a three-bagger and brought in Chance, Hayes was safe on Duncan's error, stole second and third by long sliding; Swartz reached first on strikes, Hayes scoring; Homan was thrown out at first. Second half—Freman was thrown out at first, Monroe fouled out to Donahoo, Toomey was safe on Hayes' error, stole second and reached third on passed ball; Reese was safe at first on Donahoo's error, Toomey scored, Duncan struck out.

Sixth inning—Gilbert was safe on a base hit, McDonald flew out to Reese, Gilbert reached third on Monroe's sacrifice and scored on Machen's base hit, Machen stole second by a long slide, Chance got first on Jenning's error, stole second; Donahoo reached first on Duncan's error and Machen scored, Hayes lined out a three-bagger, scoring Chance and Donahoo. Swartz struck out. Second half—Porter struck out, Smutz was safe at first on Donahoo's error and stole second; M. Duncan reached first on balls and stole second, Jennings came up with a timely two-bagger, scoring Smutz and Duncan; Freman flew out to Machen and W. Monroe struck out.

Seventh inning—Homan was thrown out at first, Gilbert reached first on Duncan's error, McDonald was safe on a base hit and stole second, Monroe was given a base on balls, Gilbert scored on a passed ball by Toomey and Machen and Chance were thrown out at first. Second half—Toomey was thrown out at first by Hayes, Reese was safe on a base hit, but was put out while stealing third; Duncan struck out.

Eighth inning—Donahoo flew out to Jennings; Hayes and Swartz struck out. Second half—Porter was thrown out at first by Chance, Smutz clothed himself in glory by making a base hit and stole second and third; M. Duncan struck out, Jennings smashed out a two-bagger, but was caught stealing third.

Ninth inning—Homan led off with a base hit, was sent to third by Gilbert's two-bagger; McDonald reached first on an error, Homan and Gilbert scoring; Monroe followed with a base hit. Machen got first on Jennings' error, Chance smashed a base hit, scoring Monroe; Donahoo followed with a base hit, scoring Machen; Hayes reached first on an error, bringing in Chance and Donahoo; Swartz flew out to Porter, Homan got first on a base hit, scoring Hayes; Gilbert struck out. Second half W. Monroe was retired at first, Toomey reached first on Donahoo's error, Reese was thrown out at first by Machen; Duncan was thrown out at first by Chance.

Struck out by Chance 12, struck out by Freman 7.

A Divided Responsibility.

From the Madera Mercury.

A great deal of speculation is being indulged in as to who should shoulder the blame for Chris Evans' escape. Before censuring the jailer for his negligence it would be well to consider who is responsible for Evans' detention in jail three weeks after the jury had found the bandit guilty and fixed his sentence.

George Sontag, Evans' partner in crime, was railroaded to states' prison without any unnecessary delay, much to the satisfaction of the Fresno people. He was not kept in jail and fattened up and allowed any chance at all to escape.

It seems strange that Evans should be kept in jail where he was visited by his wife and where friends outside were given opportunities to plot for his release.

If the Fresno courts had been more expeditious and had sent Evans to state's prison the public would probably not have heard any more of him. As it is now he is at liberty again, much more desperate than before, with a keener taste for blood and will not hesitate to kill the first man who attempts his capture. How many men will be sacrificed to the law's delay remains to be seen.

A QUAINT CEREMONY.

A Wedding Which Was Conducted In Accordance With Quaker Rites.

At noon, in the prim meeting house of the Society of Friends at Rutherford place and Fifteenth street, Miss Elizabeth Willets and Dr. Samuel W. Lambert married themselves. No minister officiated, for none was needed. No prayers were said, and no music greeted their approach to the altar. Ceremony and display were lacking.

Half an hour before the ceremony was to take place the little meeting house was crowded to the walls. Three thousand invitations had been sent out, but only about 400 could gain entrance.

Everything had a subdued character—the pews painted in soft yellowish brown colors, the ceremony, the decorations and the people. No flowers were displayed, but the rostrum and the choir seats were banked with a mass of palms. Especially noticeable among the people were the young women, clad in soft colored cloth gowns, wearing big hats, which draped in unexpected turns and creps out over their foundation and put soft veils twisted about the brims, which shaded the eyes and the brows. These young women as they entered kept their eyes right toward the pews where they were going to sit. Scattered among the crowd pressing into the church came a few Friends dressed in their old time attire—wearing smooth black coats, with velvet faced standing collars and broad topped lapels, and broad crowned, wide brimmed black hats.

Miss Willets reached the church, accompanied by her father, shortly before noon. A few minutes later the ushers led the procession up the aisle. Following were the two bridesmaids. The bride advanced leaning on her father's arm. She wore a white satin gown trimmed with point lace and a fulle veil. The bridesmaids were attired in delicate green and white striped gowns, made with full skirts and adorned with black velvet bows.

The procession was received at the rostrum by Dr. Lambert and his best man and Dr. J. W. Markoe. Dr. Lambert advanced and took Miss Willets by the right hand. They stood facing each other, scarcely looking at their assembled friends, as Dr. Lambert said:

"In the presence of the Lord and these, my friends, I promise to take thee to be my wedded wife, promising through divine assistance to be a faithful and affectionate husband till death."

Then Miss Willets spoke a few hurried words, inaudible to the people. What she said was:

"In the presence of the Lord and my friends I promise to take thee to be my wedded husband, promising through divine assistance to be a faithful and affectionate wife until death."

No prayer was offered, but after a moment's pause Mr. Howard J. Wright, the white haired clerk of the meeting, unrolled a large certificate. Dr. and Mrs. Lambert walked a step or two to the left, where he was standing, and then seating himself in a chair Dr. Lambert signed his name to the certificate. Then Mrs. Lambert signed the document, writing not her maiden name, but her new name.

Then Mr. Wright stood up and read the certificate, which recounted that on the 21st day of October the two parties in the presence of witnesses had pledged themselves to be husband and wife. To this certificate is appended a list of witnesses giving testimony that the ceremony was performed. The marriage is recorded in the birth, marriage and death book of the society.—New York Letter.

HE PRIZES THE BANDAGE.

The Life of a Young Man Saved by the Petticoat of a Fair Texan.

Arthur Kauffman, a young Memphian who was in the wreck on the Wabash road, arrived home with his head bound up in a bloody white bandage, which he regards as his most precious possession. He says gold and jewels couldn't buy that strip of cloth. Kauffman says that when the collision came something hit him, and he lost consciousness. When he regained his senses, he was lying beside the wreck of the car, bleeding copiously from a deep cut on the head and unable to help himself. Just as he was about to faint again from weakness, an awfully pretty girl came up and spied him. She was Miss Taylor of Jefferson, Tex., who had escaped injury in the wreck.

She realized at once that the young man would bleed to death if not attended to. Without a moment's hesitation she whipped off her petticoat and tearing out a strip bound it tightly on Kauffman's head. The bleeding was checked and his life saved. To say that he feels deeply grateful to the fair Texan would be drawing it very mildly, and he vows he will keep the bandage as long as he lives.—Memphis Cor. St. Louis Republic.

Did the Queen Know?

Newspapers here recently announced with a great display of type that the queen had been graciously pleased to present many bottles of wine to various London hospitals for the use of poor patients. The same papers have carefully refrained from giving currency to the report published in reputable provincial journals to the effect that most of the wine in question was the refuse of the royal cellars and unfit for use in hospitals. It was in very bad condition. Many of the bottles were half empty, and others were so badly corked that the contents had turned sour. It is charitably suggested that her frugal majesty was ignorant of these defects.—New York Sun's London Letter.

Wheat Production.

A visitor in Washington at present is Ivan Ottik of Budapesth, councilor in the royal Hungarian ministry of agriculture. His journey to America is for the purpose of investigating American agricultural economics. He has traveled largely in the west and believes that our farmers are overproducing wheat and that this course is also exhausting the soil.—Washington Dispatch.

A LONG ISLAND MYSTERY.

A Skeleton Declared to Be That of an Indian, but There Are Some Who Doubt It.

Justice Cooper and a jury, in the absence of Coroner Moore, held an inquest at Babylon, N. Y., the other day over the skeleton which was unearthed on the property of John S. Foster yesterday by some men engaged in digging post holes. A number of old residents of the village were sworn, but were unable to throw any light on the subject or identify the remains. They all stated that they could not recollect the sudden disappearance of any man. The oldest witness, however, said that the ground where the skeleton was found had never been used as a graveyard.

Charles I. Bedell, a resident of that portion of the town and a farmer, owner of the property, stated that he had plowed the ground in question about eight years ago. From this it would seem that had the body been there then it would have been unearthed, as it was only 18 inches under ground. The jury returned a verdict stating that in its opinion the skeleton was that of an Indian who had been buried about 40 years and had come to his death from natural causes.

The village people generally believe that it was the skeleton of a murdered man whose body was brought ashore and buried.

Mrs. Grant's Hunt For a Home.

Mrs. Grant has determined to make her future home in Washington, and during her recent sojourn here spent most of her time in house hunting. Almost every available residence in the West End now vacant was offered for her consideration through the various real estate agents, and it is safe to assert that she made an exhaustive examination of no less than 50 before leaving for New York with her daughter, without coming to any definite conclusion in regard to a selection. Those that suited her fancy did not suit her purse, and when houses desirable in both these respects were offered for her approval, the locality, as a rule, proved unsatisfactory. Mrs. Grant has not given up hope of ultimate success, and candidly avers her preference for Washington as a place of residence.—Washington Post.

MUST HAVE GOOD EYES

LOCOMOTIVE MEN HAVE TO PASS SEARCHING SIGHT TESTS.

Various Methods Employed For Trying the Sight of English Railway Employees. Made Necessary by the Great Development In Railway Operation.

One of the many qualities that require to be possessed by candidates for footplate honors is good sight. In fact it is the principal one on British railways. No sight aids of any description are allowed to be worn, and before being promoted the men must be able to pass satisfactorily a test which, with different companies, varies in severity. Some companies test periodically, while others only do so when the men are promoted to firing and driving, or when some accident occurs through a signal having been mistaken or passed at danger.

In justice, therefore, to the traveling public, as well as for their own interests, it is the duty of railway companies to see that the men they place in such responsible positions are thoroughly competent, as the speed at which trains are now run requires acuteness of vision.

In the early days of railway enterprise, the train was often preceded by a man on foot—sometimes on horseback—whose duty it was to see the line clear, but with the rapid developments made in locomotive engineering it was soon found necessary to dispense with this "herald," and in due course fixed signals were placed along the route.

Thus the responsibility of seeing the position of signals and attending to them was placed upon the men in charge of the train—viz, driver, fireman and guard—for the latter in the event of an accident must be able to state whether the signal was clear or not, and his sight (also that of shunters and signalmen) is subjected to the same test as that of the locomotive men.

Various methods of testing have been resorted to, but the one which for a considerable period was used by railway companies, and which the men still most approve of, was testing by means of flags and lamps. The candidate was taken to a nice straight stretch, and another party with the flags (red, green and white) by day and lamp by night was sent forward about 600 yards and exposed the signals, which the candidate was required to name to the foreman or inspector present.

Some officials, however, do not approve of the candidate naming the colors, and in such cases what is known as the "wool test" has to be gone through. This consists of a bundle of various colored wools from which the candidate must pick out pieces he thinks correspond to skeins which are given him to match. In some companies the skeins are simply hung on a bar and the candidate asked to point out the danger colors, etc., without naming them, but as there are various kinds of color blindness, it is much better to use other colors as well as those in daily use on the line. Undoubtedly this is the correct method for testing color blindness if properly conducted.

But the method which at the present time seems most popular is what is known as the "card test." This is a piece of cardboard about 5½ inches by 6½ inches. In each of the four corners are the colors, red, green, blue and yellow, all very bright, while the space left between, about two inches, is divided into squares one-fifth of an inch, which at a distance of 15 feet corresponds to a bull's-eye 2 feet square 600 yards away. The candidate stands 15 feet from the card and names the colors as they are pointed out, also counts the number of black-ened squares, which are varied in number by covering up some with a piece of paper.

Each eye is examined separately, both as to color sense and form, care being taken that the unused eye is simply covered and not pressed upon, as this causes irritation of both members. Having named the colors and counted the spots correctly, the candidate may congratulate himself that he has passed.

Generally speaking, the sight should be tested once every three or four years, as during that period accident or disease may have impaired the vision, while habitual smokers should be tested much oftener, as it has been ascertained that tobacco smoke has a deleterious effect on the sight.

As yet railway companies have not adopted a hard and fast test. Each has its own method, but as so many precious lives are intrusted to engine drivers and their mates, an exhaustive test should be made. Strictly speaking three tests should be gone through: 1. Wool test, to detect color blindness. 2. Object test, squares or small letters, for form. 3. Tested in darkened room with lamp for color ignorance, as it is important that the candidate should be able to name the colors. The lamp, having been lighted, is placed on a table, while the candidate stands about 20 feet off. A piece of cardboard with a hole about half an inch in diameter is placed over the face of the lamp, and various colored glasses passed in front, which the candidate should name, remarking whether lighter or darker than the previous one of the same colored group.—London Tit-Bits.

Ears and Character.

You never saw a poet or a painter with large, coarse ears that stand out from the head like extended wings. That kind of an auricular appendage betokens coarseness of mind. A long, narrow ear that lies flat to the head is a sign of pugnacity. Never trust a man with a thin, waferlike ear. He was born a hypocrite, if not a thief. A very small ear betokens a trifling mind, lacking decision. Ears set very high on the head indicate narrowness of mind. A large, well shaped ear that does not spread itself to the breeze is indicative of generousness. Most of the world compellers had large ears and well developed noses. Although there are so many millions of people in the world, no two pairs of ears are alike. Each has a marked individuality.—New York Recorder.

More Haste, Less Speed.

It was 9 p. m., and Herr August Glimmermann stood ready equipped in traveling costume. He put on his gloves and his hat, snatched up his plaid, turned the gas off and was about to leave the room, preparatory to starting on a long journey through Germany and Italy, when in the dark his sleeve swept over the table, in consequence of which something dropped on the floor, which, to judge from the sound, must have been a coin. Although during his absence no one could enter the room, as he was in the habit of locking it and taking the key with him, yet he thought it better not to leave the money lying about, but secure it in his purse.

He therefore relighted the gas, and found that the coin was only a copper of the value of 1 penny sterling. Putting it in his purse, he hurried out of the room and quickly locked the door, for it was just striking 9, and his train left at 9:18, so that he had only just time to catch it. Eight months later Glimmermann, on his return from Italy, unlocked the door of his room and went in. But what is that? The gas was burning merrily just as he left it after lighting it to seek the dropped coin, he having forgotten to turn it off again in his hur-
